FEATURED PROJECT

Promoting comfort and convenience at a student health clinic

This university relocated a wellness center, a counseling clinic, and an urgent care clinic to the student union in an effort to increase students' awareness of health resources. To help students feel comfortable during their sessions, the clinic's design team installed Spacesaver's Day Use Lockers for students to store their books, backpacks, and other belongings during appointments. Now students can focus on their health, and staff don't have to deal with items left behind in appointment rooms.
